Description

Children's toys from the northern croatian region of hrvatsko zagorje

The history of children's toys is directly linked with the history of the human race.

A toy has always been a synonym for pleasure and fantasy.

A child needs is to stimulate his imagination and to build his world. Toys stir his dreams and thus help to form his personality. Children's toys have mostly been made by adults, who were inspired by things around them: toys have often been objects of daily life but reduced in scale to the size suitable for children.
